

Dear Adamah Community,

January 2019

The Adamah Clay Studio was started at Bethel Horizons in 1981 by Don Hunt with a few pottery wheels under a park shelter. Adamah has continued to grow into what it is today: a year-round, adult art education center offering close to 40 different workshops. The Adamah Art Campus is now comprised of a year-round studio, a summer studio, an Anagama wood kiln and the Art Ventures Retreat Center.

Adamah is able to offer high quality, professional workshops at a fraction of the cost of other art centers because we run as a non-profit, supported in part through donations from participants like you. Your donations have helped pay for the cost of workshops, materials and new equipment.

Please consider a donation to the Adamah Clay Studios of Bethel Horizons!

This year donations to Adamah will be used to fund scholarships to help individuals with the costs of attending workshops and to help with our general operating costs to keep our workshop fees down.

We accept donations as cash, checks or through the donation button on our website:

It is an honor for me to direct the Adamah Art Studios and to be a part of the Bethel Horizons team as we celebrate our 50th year of service.

Thank you for your continued support,

Jennifer Mally – Director
